7. Procedure and conditions of defining the team and individual championships

Overall team championship among boys and girls is determined on the basis of the least amount of places, taken by teams in all the sports events. In case of equality in total places, the higher place is awarded to the team having best result in the combat deployment.

Team championship in the sports events for boys and girls is determined on the basis of minimum total time. In case of time equality, the teams are awarded the same place (subsequent place is not awarded).

The team, which has not total number of scores, is awarded a place after the teams having full score. In case of equality of incomplete scores, the team is awarded a place to the team having the minimum score time.

Individual championship in sports events, and also championship in fire relay race and combat deployment for boys and girls is determined according to the best result from two attempts. In case of results equality – according to the best total time of two attempts, and in case of equality amounts of time two attempts – according to the best result of the first attempt, further – athletes who started earlier.

Every age group performs the final races to determine winners in climbing on an assault ladder and overcoming 100 meters obstacles. The amount of athletes in final race is determined by the number of racetracks. The results of final race do not include in team result.

Final races are formed by the results of preliminary races as follows: 3, 1, 2 and 4.

Team and individual championship among boys and girls in sports disciplines is performed separately.
